

Clarksville Chronicle.

Printed Weekly, on a double-medium sheet every Friday morning, by

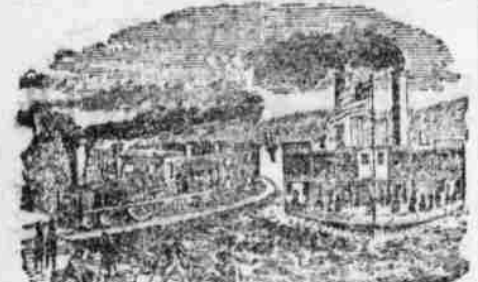

NEBLETT & GRANT,
Publishers and Proprietors.

TERMS: $2 PER ANNUM IN ADVANCE

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.
FOR ONE SQUARE OF TWENTY LINES OR LESS.
One insertion	$1 00	Two months	$4 50
Two insertions	1 50	Three months	6 00
Three insertions	2 00	Six months	9 00
One month	2 50	Twelve months	15 00

Business Cards.

J. P. WILLIAMS,

(Successor to C. H. Smith.)

Receiving, Forwarding and Commission Merchant,

CORNER OF FRONT & MAIN STS.

Clarksville, Tennessee.

Prompt attention paid to the Storage and Sale of Tobacco and all kinds of produce.

Nov. 2, '60-ly

Southern Express Company,

CLARKSVILLE, TENN.

Office--Same building occupied by him as an Insurance Office, North-West Corner of Public Square, near Moore's Hotel.

Goods, Packages, Money and Valuables forwarded to and from all parts of the United States and Europe.

S. S. WILLIAMS, Agent.

Oct. 19, 1860-1 year.

G. A. Ligon & Co.

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in Confectionaries, Cigars, &c., &c.

CLARKSVILLE, TENN.

ALL orders from a distance (accompanied with the cash) will be met punctually and upon very reasonable terms.

Nov. 27, '58-ly

J. H. JOHNSON,

Attorney at Law,

OFFICE ON STRAWBERRY ALLEY,

Adjoining the Court-house, CLARKSVILLE, TENN.

Oct. 5, '60-ly

DR. J. M. PIRTLE,

CLARKSVILLE, TENNESSEE.

OFFICE and residence, corner Main and Fourth Streets, opposite Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

February 1, 1861-ly.

B. A. ROGERS,

Attorney at Law,

Office on Franklin Street,

Clarksville, Tennessee.

Will attend promptly to the collection of all claims entrusted to his care.

Feb. 17, 1860-ly.

J. J. CRUSMAN, C. MITCHELL,

CRUSMAN & MITCHELL,

(Successors to)

CRUSMAN & JOHNSON,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS,

And Commission Merchants,

Franklin Street, Clarksville, Tennessee.

TERMS--CASH.

Feb. 22, 1860-ly.

C. H. SMITH,

Tobacco Factor, and General

COMMISSION MERCHANT,

NO. 138 COMMON STREET,

NEW ORLEANS

The most particular and careful attention will be given to the sale of all descriptions of Western Produce, to filling orders, and forwarding merchandise.

All property consigned to me will be covered by my open policy of insurance, unless specified otherwise in the bill of lading accompanying it.

Nov. 9, '60-ly

JEWELRY!

WATCHES.

DIAMONDS.

SILVER WARE.

PLATED WARE.

FANCY GOODS.

CLOCKS.

Fino Table Cutlery, &c.

HAVING recently returned from the Eastern cities with a full and well selected stock, purchased on first hands, thereby saving the Jobbers' profit, we are enabled to offer our Goods at

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

At New-York Prices!

Our PLATED WARE we sell at Manufacturers' List Prices.

Jobbing promptly attended to.

Call at the sign of the Big Watch, Public Square

G. E. COOKE.

Clarksville, Tenn., Oct. 19, 1860-ly

STEWART COLLEGE,

Clarksville, Tennessee.

The present session of this flourishing Institution will end the 6th day of June, and the next will begin on the first Monday of September, 1861.

The charges are from $12 to $25 per session of 20 weeks, with $2 per session as contingent expenses.

Boarding, including lodging, washing, fuel and lights can be had in private families for $45 per session.

The success of the College has been and is very decided and flattering, and its prospects in future are very promising.

For further particulars inquiry may be made of the President, Rev. Dr. McMillan.

Feb. 2, 1861-ly.

To Miss Mary

On receiving from her a Blue Cockade.

BY A VOLUNTEER.

"In hoc signo vinces!"

Was the old Crusader's cry.

As he sped him to the battle,

With his banner waving high.

And his heart was nerved with strength

By the cross, his battle-sign.

So shall this work of thy fair hand--

This Blue Cockade--nerve mine!

And in a holier conflict

Than Crusader ever knew,

I'll strike for Home and Southern Rights--

For Glory, and--for YOU!

And should I live to win and wear

A soldier's well-earned fame,

But let my "bounty" be thy smile--

Till all that I would claim.

But if I fall, O! strive my soul

With thy fond tear and prayer;

Then seek this emblem next my heart--

You'll find it treasured there!

CAMP FORMER, May 1st 1861.

State Convention.

Delegates from a large number of counties in the States, appointed by the people heretofore composing the Union party, met in this city at two P. M. on the 2d inst., pursuant to previous notice.

At a preliminary meeting held in the morning, a committee was appointed to report permanent officers, consisting of C. T. Trigg, Esq. of Knox; J. S. Brien, of Davidson; R. P. Caldwell of Gibson; W. H. Cherry, of Hardin, and Wm. J. Kelly, of Marion.

Hon. Josiah M. Anderson, of Sequatchee, being temporary Chairman, called the Convention to order, and recommended the following permanent officers of the Convention, which report was unanimously adopted:

President--Col. WM. H. POLK, of Maury.

Vice Presidents--Hon. JOHN BAXTER, of Knox; JOHN SUMMERS, Esq. of Weakley.

Secretaries--JOHN M. FLEMING, Esq. of Knox, and H. K. WALKER, of Davidson.

The Convention being organized, Hon John S. Brien proposed the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, The Union party of the State of Tennessee did heretofore appoint delegates from each county in the State, to meet in the city of Nashville on this day for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor;

AND WHEREAS, Since said appointments, the aspect of affairs, both civil and military, in the General and State Governments, has undergone a most alarming change; that now, instead of peace and harmony, the whole people of the United States (so to speak) are arrayed in hostile demonstrations of fraternal strife;

We, the delegates here assembled, representing the three grand divisions of the State, deem it proper for us to express our opinion as to who would be the best man to be made Governor of the State of Tennessee, surrounded as we now are.

Under the difficulties which now surround us, and the perils which are plainly before us, involving all that is dear to us as a people and as a State, it is, in our estimation, a matter of the greatest moment to each and every man, woman and child in the State of Tennessee, that we have as Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy of Tennessee, a military chieftain and civilian of large experience in both departments; a man of known courage and honesty, integrity, firmness, prudence, humanity, and a well balanced and sagacious, informed mind; so that our sons, brothers and ourselves may be protected in the trials, hardships, and dangers of the impending war.

Resolved, That in our opinion, not intending to disparage any one, all the above characteristics are concentrated more fully in the Hon. William B. Campbell, Wilson county, than any other man in the State, and we do therefore most respectfully recommend him to the people of Tennessee as their candidate for Governor, believing as we do that he is the very man for the occasion.

The preamble and resolutions were adopted without a dissenting voice.

On motion of Mr. Baxter, the Secretaries were requested to furnish copies of the proceedings to the Nashville press, and the press throughout the State were requested to copy the same.

Hon. Horace Maynard, of Knox, then moved that the Convention adjourn sine die, which motion prevailed.

And the Convention adjourned.

WM. H. POLK, President.

JOHN M. FLEMING, Secretary.

H. K. WALKER, Secretary.

The Blockade of Southern Ports.

A correspondent of the New York Day Book states the following facts:

The President of the United States has declared all the ports in the United States in a state of blockade. I have taken the trouble of carefully examining the statute laws of the United States, and am unable to find any law of the Federal Union which authorizes him to act in the manner stated. On the contrary, the Constitution of the United States expressly states that "Congress has the power to make laws concerning captures on land and on water."

This clause prohibits the President from exercising such a prerogative, as you and every sensible man will perceive; and in my mind when the President attempts by force of arms to enforce the laws, he ought to refrain at the same time from violating them. I notice that the war journals of the metropolis advocate the chartering of armed merchant vessels by the President to aid in blockading the Southern ports. If he possesses such authority, then why let it that Congress deemed it necessary and within the scope of its powers to authorize the President, at the opening of the Mexican war, to purchase or charter and equip and man such merchant vessels and steamers upon examination may be found fit, or easily converted into armed vessels fit for public service? [See U. S. Statutes at Large, p. 10.] This Act expired by its own provisions. In conclusion, permit me to say that I dare any individual to prove that Lincoln is authorized by the Federal Constitution, or any law passed in pursuance thereof, to

1st. Declare any port or ports of the Union in a state of blockade; and

2nd. To charter, buy, arm and equip merchant vessels for public service, as he already has done.

Gen. F. K. ZOLLINGER.--We believe that the friends of Southern Rights, in Tennessee, are disposed to harmonize on any good Southern man for Governor, without the formalities of a Convention, and we know of no man in the State that would be more acceptable to the people than Gen. F. K. Zollinger. He is well and favorably known to the State, as a good and true man. We would be glad at the proper time, to see him brought forward for this position.--West Tennessee Whig.

Which is the best way of retaining a woman's self?

Gentlemen--Be not retaining them.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Nashville, April 25th, 1861.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

The President of the United States--elected according to the forms of the Constitution, but upon principles openly hostile to its provisions--having wantonly inaugurated an interference war between the people of the free and non-slaveholding States of this Union, I have convened you again at the seat of Government, for the purpose of enabling you to take such action as will most likely contribute to the defense of our rights, the preservation of our liberties, the sovereignty of the State, and the safety of our people; all of which are now in imminent peril by the usurpations of the authorities at Washington, and the unscrupulous fanaticism which runs riot throughout the Northern States.

The war thus inaugurated is likely to assume an importance nearly, if not equal, to the struggle of our revolutionary fathers, for their heroic efforts to resist the usurpations and throw off the tyrannical yoke of the English Government; a war the duration of which and the good or evil that must result from it, depends entirely, in my judgment, upon the readiness with which the citizens of the South harmonize on one people, and the unanimity with which they respond to the demands of patriotism.

I do not think it necessary to recapitulate, at this late hour, the long train of abuses to which the people of Tennessee, and our sister States of the South, have been subjected by the usurpations of the President, that has for many years been manifesting itself in that section, and which has at last declared itself our open and avowed enemy. In the Message which I addressed to you at your called session in January last, these things were some of the subjects of my earnest remonstrance, and in my judgment, the amplest reason for considering ourselves in imminent danger and as requiring such action on the part of the Legislature as would place the State in an attitude of defense, whenever the momentous crisis should arise.

The most important of these things, as they relate to the North, the strongest argument for peace, and if possible, securing a reconstruction of the Union, thus already dissolved by the most authoritative, formal and matured action of a portion of the slaveholding States. Minor differences upon abstract questions of principle, and the rights of our people to the preservation of the Union, originating with their great loyalty to the Government, and a more hopeful view of the subject than I had been able to take, coupled with the supposed peaceful intentions of the authorities at Washington, have heretofore been the chief reasons for the sad realities which are now upon us.

But unfortunately as this may be, I am nevertheless, encouraged by the belief that we are at last, practically, a united people. Whatever differences we may have heretofore had, we are now united in our out of party divisions as to the right of Secession as a Constitutional remedy against Federal usurpation, all admit the moral right asserted by our fathers, of each and every people to resist wrong, and to maintain their liberties by whatever means may be necessary; "that Government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed, and that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of the ends for which it was created, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its basis on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness." Standing by this common sentiment, with the bloody and tyrannical policy of the President's usurpation before us, we are united in our opinion, that the only way to the work of Southern subjugation; the people of the proud Commonwealth of Tennessee--true to their honor, true to the great principles of free institutions, true to the lessons of their fathers, and true to their brethren of the South, the people of Tennessee, are united in their opinion, that they will, with one voice, in declaring their fixed resolve to resist the tyrant; and in pledging their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor to the maintenance of their rights, and the rights of their sister States of the South.

It cannot be overlooked that, in assuming an attitude of defiance toward us, the President has, in effect, dissolved our connection with the Federal Union. As established by our fathers, that Union no longer exists. However much we may have cherished it heretofore, no intelligent and candid man can deny that it is ceased to be a Union. It is a curse; a curse; that it is no longer a high and sacred means of protection, but an engine of oppression; and that has ceased to be a bond of brotherhood, and has become a hateful connection between communities at war. It would be idle, therefore, to speak of ourselves any longer as being united in the Federal Union; and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed by many, whose opinions are entitled to the highest respect, that, by reason of the subversion of the Constitution by the authorities in power, inaugurating a revolution between the States, that the Federal Union is already dissolved, and that the people of the United States are no longer united in the Federal Union, and while it is believed